BACKGROUND/DISCUSSION:

At the August 2025 Council retreat, Council discussed the possibility of updating the City Vision Statement. The current vision statement reads as below:

"Together, through responsible government and citizen engagement, we will preserve the City of Litchfield Park's unique beauty, heritage, and community values fostered by our founder, Paul Litchfield. "

Alternative version 1:

"Together, through accountable government and citizen engagement, we honor and preserve our historic charm to foster a deep community connection, responsible growth, and civic trust, for a resilient future. "

Alternative version 2:

"Together, through accountable government and citizen engagement, we honor our historic charm to promote community connection through responsible growth for a resilient future. "

Alternative version 3:

"Together, we honor our rich cultural heritage and historic charm to promote deep community connection through accountable government, responsible growth, and civic trust to build a resilient future for the City of Litchfield Park."

Staff requests further Council direction on this item for future Council consideration.

BACKGROUND/DISCUSSION:

The City of Litchfield Park does not currently have a strategic plan. The staff has compared the strategic plans of surrounding valley cities, and they are very similar. A strategic plan is important for long-term planning purposes as well as guiding staff with Council prioritization.

Staff will present a draft City Strategic Plan and request Council input. Once ready for Council approval, staff will bring the plan forward for a formal vote. The process to form a strategic plan takes several months and involves public input meetings, Council, staff review, etc.

Please see the links below for completed examples of other city strategic plans. Note: The attached document is the first step in the process and will change along the way. In addition subtopics will be added, etc.

BACKGROUND/DISCUSSION:

The City of Litchfield Park requires all accessory structures to maintain a minimum five-foot setback from neighboring properties along the side and rear lot lines, as well as a ten-foot separation from the primary residence. These requirements provide appropriate fire separation between structures on the same lot and between structures on adjacent properties. The City does permit accessory structures shorter than the height of the perimeter wall to maintain a zero-foot setback, though these types of sheds are rarely utilized.

A recent inventory identified approximately 600 accessory structures located at 516 individual properties. Of these, 368 properties contain one or more accessory structures that do not meet current Zoning Code standards. The majority of these violations relate to the required ten-foot separation from the home, which does not encroach onto neighboring properties, and has not been an emphasis of concern from residents.

The Planning & Zoning Commission reviewed this information in December. Staff presented two potential approaches for addressing setback conflicts:

1. Reducing setback standards, or
2. Reconstructing separating walls to achieve a one-hour fire rating, ensuring that fire or similar emergencies cannot spread across property lines.

The Commission expressed no support for reducing setbacks or altering wall standards. Instead, they requested an analysis of geographical trends across the city and focus on neighbor-to-neighbor concerns.

Follow-up analysis found that there were no geographical "hotspots" in any particular area of the city. Additionally, only 45 accessory structures, out of the 600 reviewed, create a burden on neighboring properties due to setback encroachments of three feet or less. Staff is utilizing a three-foot measurement example due to possible measurement errors from aerial photography. These cases represent the primary source of neighbor complaints, typically related to the scale of the structure, visual impacts, and potential fire or emergency concerns.

Staff requests City Council direction on how to proceed. Options include:

1. Maintaining the current Zoning Code standards;
2. Amending the Zoning Code standards;
3. Proactively enforcing existing violations; or
4. Responding to enforcement cases only when complaints are submitted.
